Erin Wolf is a nationally-recognized speaker, executive coach and consultant in the areas of leadership development, organizational change, and organizational strategy. She has more than 25 years of experience and has worked for elite firms such as Bain & Company, Goldman Sachs, Accenture and Salomon Brothers Inc. She is currently the managing partner of SuiteTrack, a firm dedicated to helping companies advance women professionals in the workplace. Her clients include companies such as AT&T, UPS, Kimberly-Clark, The Home Depot, Dow Chemical, Blue Cross Blue Shield, Arby's, AGCO, KPMG and Whirlpool as well as not-for-profits and academic institutions across the country.

Erin is in partnership with Michigan State's Eli Broad College of Management, University of South Carolina's Moore School of Business, and Kennesaw State University's Coles College of Business where she creates and delivers executive education programs to women professionals. She is a member of the faculty at Coles College of Business and holds the title of Executive in Residence.

Before founding SuiteTrack, Erin was Managing Director at Alvarez and Marsal where she drove business development and content delivery in the Southeast region. Prior to that, Erin was Vice President of Strategy and Executive Team member for Children's Healthcare of Atlanta and Chief Strategy Officer for ChoicePoint, a $1 billion data services company.

Erin was also an Associate Partner at Accenture where she advised clients on a variety of strategic and organizational business issues. Prior to Accenture, Erin was with Bain & Company, one of the world's leading strategic consulting firms. Her investment banking experience includes roles with Salomon Brothers Inc where she led fixed income derivatives hedging for the Southeast and, subsequently, Goldman Sachs where she built their derivatives presence on the West coast.

Erin currently sits on the Women's Leadership Board of Harvard University's Kennedy School, the Advisory Boards of The Harvard Business School Club of Atlanta and Homrich Berg Wealth Management, and the Head's Council of Hathaway Brown School in Shaker Heights, Ohio. A former nationally ranked tennis player and scholarship athlete, she received her BA Magna Cum Laude in Economics and Spanish from Duke University and her MBA from Harvard University.

Erin's publications include two books, Lessons From the Trenches: A Woman's Guide to Winning the Corporate Game and If I Knew Then What I Know Now: Secrets to Success from Top Women Leaders. Erin speaks to audiences across the country about men, women, and leadership in the workplace.
