There are things that go bump in the night, and things we cannot see. These things will send shivers up our backs and keep us awake at night. What is the nature of our feelings of horror and what contexts does horror arise? We connect horror to fear, but why do we connect to something we should avoid? With the popularity of true crime podcasts, films, art, and books on the topic, there is a definite push and pull. This course is designed to explore the emotion of horror both from the standpoint of theoretical and empirical work on emotion and from the standpoint of critical approaches to the phenomenon of horror in art.

HON 2400/03 (0 credit hours)	Honors Discovery: The Road to Character	87798	Tricia Chastain	W: 3:30pm–5:30pm (Kennesaw) (7- week I)

We will explore the growth of Atlanta's economy, have guest speakers representing business and government, and better understand where the region's economy is headed in the coming years. This course will meet every other week for 10 weeks.

HON 2400/06 (0 credit hours)	Honors Discovery: Trans-Global Connections: France &lt;-&gt; Japan	87811	Noëlle Brown	M: 3:30pm–5:30pm (Kennesaw) (Full Term)
The French have a fascination for everything Japanese, and the Japanese are intrigued by everything French. French society has been influenced by Japan in the 19th-20th centuries, since the Japan-France Treaty of Amity and Commerce in 1858: art (for instance Monet, Van Gogh), literature (for instance Victor Hugo), interior decorating, cuisine, manga, and anime, among other things. Some cultural products are imported, some translated and dubbed, and some influences are less clear. France is represented in Japan through pastries, literature, and a love of Paris (and its unfortunate side effect of the Paris Syndrome). Manga and anime draw heavily on European influences. This course will explore the surprising connections between France and Japan, bringing these two disparate countries, cultures, and traditions together. We'll examine cultural connections like food, art, literature, and films. This course will meet every other week for 10 weeks.
HON 2400/07 (0 credit hours)	Honors Discovery: Sustainability, Climate Change and the Built Environment	88089	Hazem Rashed-Ali	TH: 5:00pm– 7:00pm (Marietta) (Full Term)
The course will introduce student to the latest studies on the status of climate change around the world and the need for developing mitigation and adaptation strategies in response to its forecasts. The course will then focus on the role played by the built environment, both as one of the contributors to the causes of climate change as well as a source of ideas for developing innovative approaches for climate change mitigation and adaptation. Case studies of such innovative approaches from around the world will be identified and analyzed. The course will draw from the latest studies by the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change, IPCC, the US National Climate Assessments and other recent literature on the topic. This course will meet every other week for 10 weeks.
HON 2400/08 (0 credit hours)	Honors Discovery: Dialogue at Play: Developing Dialogue Skills Through Actor Improvisation	88113	Harrison Long	W: 12:30pm– 2:30pm (Kennesaw) (7- week I)

Students will participate in brief guided journaling exercises and reflect about their
